

Chicago History

Researching any paper takes time and effort. It takes the researcher time to find information; to evaluate the information for such things as accuracy and timeliness; to evaluate the credibility of the source of that information; and it takes time to write an original document using the researched information to support a thesis while using proper citation throughout the paper.

Included in this packet is information on:

Plagiarism

from the University of Indiana

<http://www.indiana.edu/~wts/pamphlets/plagiarism.shtml>

Criteria for Evaluating Web Pages

from Cornell University

<http://www.library.cornell.edu/olinuris/ref/research/webcrit.html>

from the University of California at Berkeley

<http://www.library.cornell.edu/olinuris/ref/research/webcrit.html>

Use the three attached documents throughout your research process to help avoid plagiarizing another's published work in your paper, and to determine the accuracy of information and the credibility of the sources you have researched for the purpose of writing an effective and accurate research paper.